PROFILE

Cody Harris graduated Montclair State University in 2012. His theatre degree gives him a unique perspective on lighting, artistic narrative, and the design process. He has merged his theatrical design world with his artistic lighting perspectives since his introduction to architectural lighting at Grenald Waldron. Now in a professional capacity, he has since applied this unique approach to architectural elements, design narratives, and custom fixture design.

Cody has, on numerous occasions, used his theatrical perspective to seamlessly integrate lighting concepts and custom lighting fixture designs into a multitude of projects. He has also excelled at learning the necessary software and calculation methods used to meet design and code requirements in today's design world.
